April 06, 2010

Dear Parents, Guardians and Employees:

Good news! Flu activity in the United States is low at this time, although Georgia has experienced a slight increase of cases in March. As of February 13, 2010, approximately 86 million people had received H1N1 vaccine. To date, the outbreak of 2010 winter, seasonal flu has not been distinguished from H1N1. As we plan for spring and summer travel, the following links may be helpful for tips to staying healthy.
